

TERRIFIC COLD IN MIDDLE WEST

Two to Eight Below Zero Made Infinitely Worse by Gale—One Found Dead.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Chicago, Jan. 5.—An unidentified man found frozen to death long before dawn today, with neither money nor overcoat, was the first victim to fall of a renewed mid-west cold wave whose intensity unofficial thermometer readings put at 10 degrees below zero in Chicago. Weather bureau forecast for Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa all agreed on colder today.

A force west wind whipped the Great Lakes region, its fury virtually clipped the bottom from thermometers. When government weather bureau readings ceased at 10 o'clock last night the temperature had fallen to 2 below from 8 above at noon yesterday.

At 10 a. m. the coast guard station on the North Shore reported 10 below, a drop of 4 degrees in an hour.

The cold played all sorts of pranks with unofficial thermometers.
An outlying police station reported its mercury had shrunk to 15 below. At the opposite end of the city police found it to be 12 below.

The last time thermometers went on a rampage in Chicago was in 1912, when they sank to 16 degrees below zero.

Chicago reopened its municipal clogging house last night. Every bunk was taken and many slept on the floors.

These temperature readings, all below zero, were reported: Minn-neapolis, Minn., 32; Fox Lake, Wis., 26; Winnetka, Minn., 25; Des Moines,
Iowa, 23; Lincoln, Neb., 16; Springfield, Ill., 16; Milwaukee, 15; Kearney, Neb., 14; Omaha, Neb., 14;
Kansas City, Mo., 12; Marion, Ind., 10; Indianapolis, Ind., 6.

California's climate was holding up its head at a level of 45 degrees above zero in San Francisco, while Denver, Colorado, registered 15 above.

DOESN'T WANT TO GO TO FLORIDA

Fouhy's Reluctance Due to Charge Of Embezzlement There—He Fights Extradition in Kingston Court.

James F. Fouhy who conducts a summer hotel in the town of Shandaken during part of the year and spends part of the year in Florida, is resisting attempts of officials of Putnam county, Florida, to secure his presence there on a charge of embezzlement, and on Friday afternoon
a hearing was had before Judge Hasbrouck at Supreme court chambers in habeas corpus proceedings taken by Fouhy to secure his release. The writ of certiorari was directed to William H. Kolts as sheriff, the proceedings having been taken a few days before Sheriff
Kolts went out of office.

According to the charge on which a warrant of extradition for Fouhy was issued by Governor Smith upon a requisition of the governor of Florida, Fouhy embezzled and appropriated to his own use an automobile valued at $3,250, having come into possession of the automobile on April 6, 1923, as agent of W.
P. Dorrough of Palatka, Florida. The embezzlement is alleged to have taken place on May 16.

At a previous hearing, Fouhy claimed to have come into possession of the automobile as agent, and said that it was taken from him by motion picture men. He left Florida, he said, on April 16, reaching New York city on April 26, and did not see the automobile or the people who had taken it until after he had reached New York. The matter had been adjourned at the time of the previous hearing for the purpose of giving Fouhy opportunity to procure witnesses.

When the matter came before Judge Hasbrouck on Friday afternoon, Fouhy's counsel, Andrew J.
Cook, moved to dismiss the extradition proceedings on the ground that the information, or complaint, made by the Florida officials was insufficient, and that in view of Fouhy's claim not to have been in the state of Florida at the time of the alleged embezzlement, the court was justified in examining into the evidence and to discharge Fouhy if it should be shown he was not there at the time charged.

Fouhy's motion was opposed by District Attorney Travis who claimed that under the decisions of state and federal courts, the precise time charged in the complaint was of less consequence than Fouhy's admission that he had been in Florida about the time of the alleged embezzlement of the automobile, and his admission that he had been connected with the transaction out of which the charge of embezzlement had grown.

Mr. Cook said he had been unable to get witnesses to be present in court on Friday and asked further adjournment to procure them. Judge Hasbrouck said he would hold the matter open until four o'clock this afternoon.

The complaint against Fouhy is that he took the agency for the automobile and that both he and the car disappeared from Florida at approximately the same time, both being located in New York city afterward.

It was intimated at Friday's hearing that Fouhy's right to remove the car from the state of Florida under his agency agreement might be one of the questions to be litigated.

MISS NORMAND AND DINES "DOING NICELY"
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Los Angeles, Cal. Jan. 5.—Horace A. Greer, chauffeur for Mabel Normand, will not escape prosecution for shooting and seriously wounding Courtland S. Dines, wealthy clubman, at a gay New Year's party in Dines's luxurious apartment which was attended by Miss Normand and Edna L. Purviance.

This was the emphatic statement today of Assistant Captain of Detectives Herman Cline, who declared there was no loophole through which Greer could escape prosecution.

Both Dines and Miss Normand were reported by attaches at the hospital early today as "doing nicely."
It is believed Dines is now on the road to recovery. Miss Normand is recovering from her operation for appendicitis.

GAS PRICE STRENGTHENS AS DAYS LENGTHEN

Gasoline which has been dropping in price for the past several months apparently reached the bottom when it hit 18 cents a gallon. The retail price has just been advanced two cents a gallon at the pump and is now selling for 20 cents. A recent increase in the price of crude oil is the cause.

ULSTER SOCIETY DINNER JAN. 26

The eighth annual dinner of The Ulster Society will be held in the Waldorf-Astoria, Fifth avenue and Thirty-fourth street, New York, on Saturday evening, January 26.

At the annual meeting held last November all the officers were re-elected. During the past year the society has gained nearly forty in membership and there is a fine feeling of fellowship prevailing. It is needless to say that the dinner this year will eclipse all former functions given by our society.

The Hon. Philip Eling, collector of this port of New York, will be the society's guest of honor. The Hon.
Job E. Hedges and the Hon. Martin Conboy will be the speakers. Honorary President C. J. Curtin will preside.

Promptly at 7:30 o'clock the dinner will be served. A reception beginning at 6:30, will precede the banquet. This delightful feature in connection with our affairs has always proved most popular as it affords opportunity for the renewal of acquaintances, which is the very reason for the existence of the society. The price of the banquet tickets is the same as last year.

year and the special series opened on Friday evening was the first of its kind to be started. Reports of the officers showed the association to be in a prosperous condition.

D. Pardee, vice-president; Arthur C.
Connelly, secretary and attorney;

AUTOMOBILE A PANACEA FOR WAR

It's Greatest Agency Yet Discovered.
Says Henry Ford—Auto Industry
Just Getting Started—Working on Airplane Motor.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 5.—More automobiles—less war. The automobile is an agent of peace, says Henry Ford.
"There are no remote places in the United States and the people of many nations live here in peace in understanding," says Mr. Ford.
"Because there is an easy interchange of ideas and ideals."

This interchange, Ford explains in an interview with Norman Beasley, published in the current issue of Motor, is due to the automobile. The Detroit manufacturer believes enough autos could pacify Mexico.

"The development of the automobile is the greatest single instrument for world peace I can think of," Ford declares. "When the automobile becomes as common in Europe and Asia as it is in the United States, nations will understand each other.
Rulers won't be able to make war
because the people won't let them."

"This is the biggest thing the automobile industry is going to accomplish—the elimination of war."
"What is the automobile industry
coming to?" Ford was asked.

"What is the automobile industry coming to? Why, the automobile industry is just getting started," he answered. "There can be no 'saturated' in the industry until there are more than enough automobiles to go around. Such a condition will be a long time coming—if it ever comes."

"But the automobile is coming to this: Redefinition, everywhere. Mechanical defects have been pretty well eliminated. Friction will be removed, adding life to the car and pleasure to driving. Cars will be made lighter, making riding easier."

The prospective opening up of the markets of the world for American automobiles is a subject of study for American manufacturers, Ford said.
Ford revealed that he is developing an airplane motor. He does not, however, plan to make airplanes, he said.

"The automobile business and the airplane business can be allied only so far as motors are concerned," he explained.

The airplane will never be as popular as the automobile, Ford said, as a means of transportation over short distances.

"But it probably will become useful for long distance travel," he said. "It is natural for human beings to travel on land."

Automobiles are going to be cheaper, Ford said, not because of cheaper materials, but because of "better production."

BANDIT KILLS WHEN RESISTED

New York, Jan. 5.—Edward H.

Point railway station. Two men stopped him. Dolge refused to obey their command to strip a valuable diamond ring from his finger. One bandit fired four times. Only one shot took effect. The bandit escaped.

PITTSBURGH, FLOOD OVER, NOW SHIVERS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Pittsburgh, Jan. 5.—Prospects of the coldest weather since 1915 faced Pittsburgh and western Pennsylvania today as the city shivered in the grip of the most severe cold wave of the season. At 11 a. m. the thermometer registered 9 degrees above, the season's record low point, and forecasters said temperatures of five below zero would be reached tonight.

The cold wave has effectively checked the rise of the rivers. The high water receded rapidly throughout the night and a stage of 20.5 feet and falling—1.8 feet below flood stage—was officially recorded this morning.

AUTHORITY ON CATSKILLS DIES

Richard Stevens Barrett, "The King of the Catskills," Died Thursday

eral New York and Philadelphia

SPAFFORD SCORES MELLON PLAN

State Legion Head Says It's War
Profiteers' Scheme to Beat Bonus and Soldier Vote Will Oppose It.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 5.—Attacking the Mellon plan of tax reduction as class legislation, Commander Edward E.
Spafford, of the New York Department of the American Legion, today declared in an address before the New York Republican Club, that 16,700,000 "soldier votes" would be mustered against the proposal.

He charged the "war profiteers who exploited the masses," have hit upon the Mellon plan as good politics by which they hope to defeat the bonus measure.

Spafford spoke in favor of adjusted compensation. He said the legion was not in politics but would vote for its own protection. He charged the Mellon tax plan was unfair to the married man of small income.
He insisted the government could pay the adjusted compensation
"bonus" out of the interest it could receive from the money now set aside in the United States treasury with which to pay soldier life insurance. This money—$1,250,000,000, according to Spafford—has never been touched.

1913 and after spending about a month in jail pleaded guilty to the charge on which he was arrested and was sentenced to the Elmira Reformatory from which he was later discharged according to law.

ARE YOU RUPTURED?

We wish to announce the visit of the Collings Truss Expert at the Stuyvesant Hotel, Kingston, N. Y., Monday, Jan. 7, from 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m., and 7 to 9 in the evening. He will also be at the Plaza Hotel, Newburgh, N. Y., Tuesday afternoon and evening, Jan. 8, all day and evening, Wednesday, Jan. 9.

Back View of New Invention for Rupture.

We want to demonstrate to you absolutely without a penny in advance, our new invention for holding difficult or aggravated cases of rupture whether of inguinal or umbilical character. If you are cured you should be interested in our ability to fit you with a truss that will do its work properly and give you the greatest ease and comfort possible.

Scientific and Practical

This new Collings Truss is based on the most scientific principles for holding a rupture. It is not only representative of mechanical perfection but contains that super-power for holding a rupture without discomfort, and that makes for a complete recovery where this result is possible.

Contains No Springs

There are no springs or metal parts used in this new truss other than the small necessary buckles; instead it is made of high-grade elastic web with soft, pliable cloth back made wider so to distribute the pressure over a broader surface. Prevents all cutting and chafing and gives the necessary uplift to the pads.

It Holds The Rupture

It is easily, quickly and permanently adjusted so an even and uniform pressure can be constantly maintained at any desired tension. The patented sectional pads are adaptable and will fit any kind of rupture. As the cure progresses the pressure can be lessened without a change of pads.

It Stays Put

When placed in position, the truss stays put and does not shift or slide. Regardless of the position of the wearer's body; stooping, jumping or standing erect, the truss remains firm and set, and adjusts itself as the occasion demands.

Comfortable Day or Night

To do its maximum amount of good, a truss should be worn continuously day and night. Upon retiring many people remove the truss, with the result that the weakened muscular tissues relax and oftentimes allow the rupture to assume the form of the original protrusion. This new truss can be worn at all times.

CHRISTMAS AT THE CITY HOME

Among the less fortunate people of Kingston, the folk at the City Home were given an especially merry and happy Christmas this year; in fact they enjoyed the entire Christmas season.

On the Sunday before Christmas in the afternoon, young people from the Livingston Street Lutheran Church visited the Home and decorated the dining room and trimmed the Christmas tree, while the Christian Endeavor Society of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church decorated the stairs and the women's rooms. There was a Christmas bell in every window of the big City Home, besides other Christmas decorations and the tree. A Christmas service was held by the Livingston Street Lutheran pastor, the Rev. E. T. Schroeder, who delivered a short but impressive address. A male quartet and a quartet of women's voices rendered several Christmas selections; there were songs, and also Christmas carols sung by all. The young folks had taken up with them ten quarts of ice cream, and twenty home-made cakes (bought to last throughout the holidays), which they served, and then presented each member of the home with a package containing a handkerchief, fruit and candy.

On the Sunday after Christmas, young folks from the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, the Rev. R. A. Greenwell accompanying them, visited the Home. They held an appropriate service, and the pastor delivered a sermonette, while members of The Gem Society of the church presented each member of the City Home with a box of candy.

On Christmas Day, everybody at the Home enjoyed a delicious dinner of home-cured roast pork, with all the accompanying "fixings," and the ice cream.

Last Wednesday, a group of young people of all of the Protestant Churches of the city visited the Home and gave an entertainment. There were vocal solos by Mrs. Van Duzee and Miss Rosaline Fitzgerald; readings by Miss Dorothy Mac Fadden and Miss Elizabeth Wootton, and chorus singing of "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing!" and "Joy to the World." They too, served ice cream and home-made cake and then presented each member of the Home with a little envelope containing a little money; a box of candy, an orange and a Christmas card.

In addition the following Christmas gifts were received: Candy from Miss Anna Moran; fruit to each member from members of Mrs. James Brink's Sunday school class of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church; fruit, cake and candy from Miss Nettie Smith; candy, fruit and cake from Mrs. Ida Dubois; candy from Jacob A. Lay; $1 from Mrs. Kilpatrick; large basket of fruit from Galange and Mrs. Haerson; a bath towel and wash cloth for each of the women and pipe and tobacco for each of the men, from the Catholic Daughters of America; sandwiches, cake and coffee from the Kingston Gas and Electric Company; an apron for each of the women from Mrs. Sam Bernstein; large supply of coffee cake from a friend; handkerchiefs and tobacco for the men from the Men's Bible Class of the Fair Street Reformed Church and a year's subscription to the Christian Herald; basket of fruit from Mrs. Fred Schloff and Mrs. Esther Thomas; a bag of fruit, cake and candy for each one from the local W. C. T. U.; candy from Alonzo Terpening; candy and cake from Mrs. Roberts; a gift for each member from The Monday Club and Mrs. W. N. Fessenden; candy from St. Mary's School; $5 from Miss Solie Rice; $5 from The Lend-a-Hand Society of the C. O. Schler Sanitarium; gift for each member from Miss Emily Rice.

For all this generosity and the good times afforded the members of the Home and the general Christmas cheer, Superintendent Edmonston and all of the members most cordially thank the donors.

NEW ORGANIST AT ST. JOHN'S ON SUNDAY.

On Sunday, Epiphany, Frederick Richens, who has been so acceptably occupying the position as organist of the Church of the Redeemer, this city, for the past two years, will assume his new duties as organist of St. John's Episcopal Church, Wall Street. Mr. Richens, who is of English birth and training, has already made many musical friends in Kingston, and will at St. John's Church continue his custom of giving Sunday afternoon organ recitals, which was also the custom of the two previous organists at St. John's, Mr. McClure and Mr. Willgoose.

On Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at St. John's Church there will be a decided and beautiful innovation in a "Candlelight service," appropriate to the Feast of the Epiphany. The underlying thought of the service will be the spread of the gospel through the world, Christ being the light of the world, His apostles, enlightened by His teachings, becoming the lights of their generation, and succeeding ages being illumined by the light shed forth by the church. Children of St. John's Church will represent the twelve apostles and the twenty centuries since the birth of Christ and carols appropriate to the service on Epiphany day will be sung during the hour.

"Scalped the Mon."

A Scottish footballer was as bold as a billiard ball, but managed to keep it concealed by means of a cap and wig. In one match, however, as one of his opponents took a red-hot shot at the goal, "Wigley" got his head in the way of the ball and the wig and cap were knocked off. When the first player saw the result of his shot he seemed thunderstruck for a moment, and then exclaimed: "Gild heavens! I've scalped the mon!"

2 NEW CHANDLER SEDANS COMING

Why Closed Cars Can Be Made and Sold at Less Increase Over Price of Open Cars Than Formerly.

That the difference in price between open and closed cars has nearly reached the disappearing point is emphasized by the Chandler's show-time announcement of two new sedans priced but little higher than the open models.

"Closed cars formerly were in the class of luxuries," says Leroy Longendyke, of the Broadway Garage, the local Chandler dealer, "when few were manufactured as compared with open cars. For years, sedans were priced at a thousand dollars more than open cars of the same passenger capacity. This difference has gradually been reduced. Improved manufacturing methods also brought about a reduction in the cost of closed bodies, with resulting increase in popularity. Greater demand, in turn, brought about increased production, with more cuts in cost through quantity methods of manufacture.

"With the Chandler Company, closed cars now form more than half of the yearly production, permitting this company to offer sedans so slightly higher in cost than the touring cars as to mark a new record.

"The Chandler Company has just announced two brand new sedans, the Four-Door, a five passenger car, and a new seven passenger sedan, both with higher bodies mounted on the standard Chandler chassis, with its Pike's Peak motor and traffic transmission. In addition, a reduction has been made on the Chummy Sedan, the most popular Chandler model. The price of the new Four-Door Sedan (5 passenger), is $1,595 and that of the seven passenger sedan, $2,095. We expect to have these new cars in stock in about a week and will announce their arrival in The Freeman, when every body is invited to come in and look them over."

The Chummy Sedan is now priced at $1,745 instead of $1,755. It is therefore only $250 higher than the five passenger touring car and the new Four-Door Sedan $110 higher while the new seven passenger sedan is only $160 higher than the seven passenger touring car.

WIRE RACK FOR DRYING THE HOT RINSED DISHES.

Wire Support for the Pan Gives Helpful Service.

A good heavy wire basket, fitted three-quarters of an inch from the drain board, soldered joints and no rusting protrusions; divided off into convenient compartments, so that dishes of all sorts may find a safe resting place for rinsing and drying—these are some of the claims, and justified claims, of the "graduated dish dryer."

If you have capacious drain boards there are two models: eleven and fifteen inches long; it fits your case. If you have a tin kitchenette there is one eleven and one-half inch model that sets down in the sink beside the dishpan and works without any fear of splashing. Stacking slippery wet dishes on a tray, one on top of the other, is laborious, dangerous and inefficient, and makes thorough rinsing and the use of the hottest possible water impracticable.

So this simple device, with its graduated spaces that enable you to rinse the dishes thoroughly with water hot enough so that they dry by evaporation, is, like other simple things, much more of a practical comfort than some elaborate additions to kitchen efficiency. It's not "much ado about nothing" to draw attention to this sturdy assistant dishwasher, whose services are within the financial reach of every one.

You can put six large plates in the back space, fourteen plates and saucers in the next two, and six cups, bowls or glasses in the front two—a total of twenty to thirty pieces easily rinsed and dried at once.

A convenient stand for the dishpan, raising it to a level with the sink edge and even with the dish drainer, is also handy, especially if, as is too often the case, the sink is lower than it should be. Thirty-four to thirty-six inches is desirable, but how the plumbers do hate to set them that high!

Kleptomania denotes a disorder of volition termed an impulse and constituting a symptom of insanity, due to mental impairment. It is characterized by impulsive acts done without a reasoning process. Kleptomaniacs appropriate generally bright or attractive articles, stowing them away often without concealment, never putting them to any use or deriving any gain from them.

A RECIPE EXTRAORDINARY FOR MEAT LOAF.

A new meat loaf which raises that sometimes uninteresting dish to high estate! The recipe was labeled "The most satisfactory I have ever made or eaten," and after doing both we heartily endorse the claim.

Two pounds round steak, two cups tomatoes, three-quarters of a cup of rolled oats, one onion, three teaspoons salt, half a teaspoon of pepper, three strips of bacon.

Put the meat and onions through the meat grinder. If fresh tomatoes are in season, peel and cut them, draining off the juice; if can ed ones are employed, strain off the juice.

Mix all ingredients together. Lay in a pan in the form of a loaf, dredge with flour and cover with bacon slices. Bake about an hour in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahr.), basting occasionally.

When ready to serve, remove from the pan and add the tomato juice to the gravy. Season and thicken if preferred.

The addition of a dozen ripe olives sliced thin was suggested and would give an interesting flavor to the loaf or the sauce.

Cold, this was voted even more delicious than hot. The flavors were all emphasized, though blended, and it made unusually good sandwiches. If it is to be served sliced cold it is better, perhaps, to bake it in a bread pan, so as to hold the shape more firmly, but, of course, it will not be brown all over.

Committee Requests Early Response From Members.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Weiner Rose Co. at headquarters, Central Fire Station, Friday evening the newly elected officers were installed. A resolution of thanks was adopted to be sent Rose-Gorman-Rose for the presentation of a box of fine cigars. The committee of arrangements for the pig roast to be served Thursday evening, January 10, reported it contracted for two little roasting pigs of about fifty pounds each, and that all the other good things that make a pig roast complete will be ready. As a number of members who have been notified as to the date have not replied as to whether they would come the committee hoped for an early response so that reservation for them can be made.

CONGRESS WALLOWED IN SEA OF INVESTIGATIONS.

Dok Plan Latest Object of Suspicion—No Organization Yet.

By The Staff of The Freeman
Washington, Jan. 5.—The sixty-eighth congress a month old and no yet organized for legislative business, was threatened today with engulfment in a sea of investigations and inquiries. A score of investigations have been projected in the four short weeks congress has been on the job—more than ever before in a similar period.

A brand new one loomed in the offing today—an investigation into the circumstances surrounding the Dok peace pact, which is to be announced next Monday and for which an energetic campaign of education will be launched simultaneously with its publication.

AFRICAN RECOUPMENT.

The French are planning a trans-Saharan railroad to make more available the tremendous resources in French Equatorial Africa. Belgium is tapping the natural riches of the Belgian Congo by a new road some 800 miles in length. The acquisition of German East Africa, now known as Tanganyika, has given new impetus to the British ambition for a Cape to Cairo railroad. Portugal is also extending rail lines into undeveloped sections of Angola. All of the powers with territorial holdings in Africa are exerting themselves to make available to the rest of the world the immense wealth of that continent. In the years to come Africa will be one of the world's principal centers of production.

That development has a direct bearing on the allied debt to the United States. Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium are the principal debtors, and each of them is possessed of great empires in Africa. The payment of the British debt has been spread over a period of 62 years, and the debts of the others will be extended equally as long when refunding settlements are concluded. With the present rate of progress in Africa there can be little doubt that long before the expiration of that time enough wealth will flow to the home governments from those colonies to pay the interest and principal of their American obligations many times over.

In connection with the frequent direful predictions that the world is soon to run out of oil, it is interesting to read the statement by H. A. Haring in the Annalist for December 24, that few of our oil wells have dried up. In fact, Western Pennsylvania, the original oil field, is producing more than 50 years ago, and the first well ever drilled in Oklahoma, eighteen years ago, still delivers to the pipe line each day the same amount of oil it did in the first year of its existence. While it is probably true, as stated by Mr. Haring, that the amount of money put into the drilling and operation of wells equals the amount taken out, so that there has been no net profit to the operators on the whole, yet some operators have made enormous profits, there has been an abundance of oil, and there is every prospect that the supply will continue indefinitely. There is no need to lie awake nights worrying over the danger of lack of gasoline or fuel oil.

The House Ways and Means Committee is completing consideration of the bill containing the tax reduction plan of Secretary Mellon. The Democrats of the Senate and House are said to be at work on a plan of their own, while the insurgents are preparing still another scheme. There should be no hesitation in choosing from the lot. The Treasury officials are in closest touch with financial conditions, they are more intimately acquainted with the working of the present income tax laws, and they know best what changes should be made in them for the welfare of the whole country. Mr. Mellon's bill is dictated by the lesson of experience and the needs of the government, and ought to be written into law.

Henry Ford knows that the ever increasing sales of his flivvers is directly due to the increasing buying power of the public under the beneficent influence of Republican economic policies as they have been administered by the late President Harding and by President Coolidge. Mr. Ford is recognized as the leading expert in the country in the manufacture and marketing of automobiles, and his advocacy of a continuation of Mr. Coolidge in the White House is the advice of one who knows what he is talking about. Everybody who has anything to sell, whether it be merchandise, transportation, services, or what not, should agree with Mr. Ford's conclusions.

When the present fiscal year ends next June there will have been paid out in pensions to veterans of all wars preceding the World War about $6,600,000,000. At the same time there will have been expended for veterans of the World War about $3,000,000,000, in addition to $427,000,000 distributed by the states themselves as bonuses. It is now proposed that a bonus, estimated by the Secretary of the Treasury at more than $5,000,000,000, be added to the total for the soldiers of the late war, injured and able bodied alike.

That Body of Yours

THAT MUSCULAR BELT.

In a former article I recommended corsets for everybody, having in mind, of course, the corsets made of muscle with which nature has provided everyone of us.

They are the muscles of the abdomen which run across, vertically and obliquely, over the abdomen.

Nature intended that we should develop these by the every-day work of life, and so everyone who does much bending would have these muscular corsets developed naturally.

When well developed they will withstand a blow that might even break the ribs.

A boxer gives special attention to these muscles as a blow in the abdominal region might reach the solar plexus of nerves and the victim would be counted out owing to complete temporary paralysis.

However, I had in mind the number of people who wonder why their digestion is bad, why they have pain in the abdominal region so often, and why they are so constipated.

And the reason often?

That they are so weak muscularly that all the organs in the abdomen have actually sagged.

The ligaments that hold the organs in position share in the general weakness and these abdominal organs are allowed to fall forward.

Then as the muscles of the abdominal wall are weak they allow the organs to fall further forward.

Thus the stomach, intestines, liver and spleen are all out of their normal positions and cannot do their work properly.

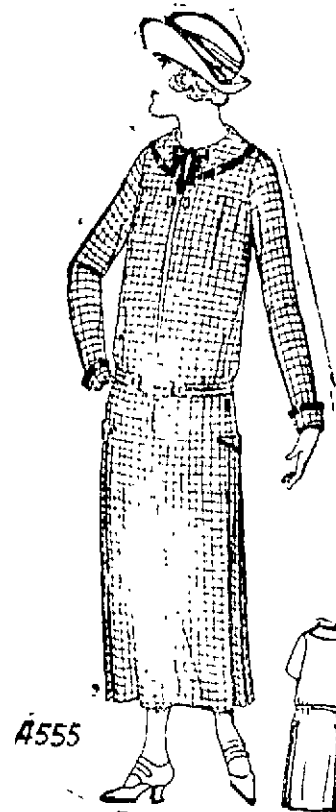

The symptoms vary to some extent, but you can readily see that where the ligaments are weak generally, and the abdominal muscles, also, that all the organs will be affected more or less.

There will be a general feeling of weakness, unrest of the stomach and of intestines.

That many cases of stomach, liver and intestinal trouble are cleared up by an abdominal support has been amply proven.

The pity of it is that such an artificial aid is needed. The simple exercise of bending over and endeavoring to touch the toes twenty times a day will give you a belt of muscle sufficient to hold your organs in place.

(By Mrs. Amos Tash.)

As long as the food tastes good and there is plenty of it, in front of him; as long as the buttons are on and the socks darned; as long as he feels certain that other men want his wife, but have no chance of getting her; as long as he can have three-fourths of the bed and all the covers in the winter; as long as he is not bothered; as long as his wife does not ask for too much money; as long as he is permitted to talk about himself without being interrupted; as long as he isn't asked to dress up and go somewhere—a man, is a fairly decent animal, but let any of these conditions fail and a man is the wildest in all the zoo.

One of the Worst of the Season Is Lumbago

Weekly Health Talk
By Froude & Mac Kinnon, D. C.

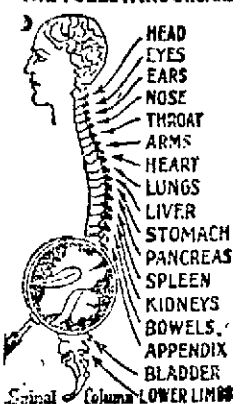

One of the worst of the ailments of the winter season is lumbago—the stab in the back that bends you over without ability to get up, or puts you in bed to suffer.

The pain is in the back, the spinal nerves are sore to touch. In fact everything points to the fact that it is an irritation of spinal nerves, rendered worse by retention of kidney wastes. When the pinched nerves are released and the kidney activity is restored to normal, the lumbago disappears. By our chiropractic method, the average lumbago recovery is materially quickened.

THIRTY YEARS OF SUFFERING RELIEVED

"I suffered with my back for thirty years, and neither the doctor's advice nor his medicines had any effect. I thought of trying chiropractic, but hesitated, for I could not see how a method of that kind could reach a condition like mine, but I tried anyhow, and was agreeably surprised. My back got well and is staying well. I don't understand it, but it is wonderful, and I am grateful of this opportunity to say something."—W. H. The story is that this youth had never failed to give the "lonesome old man" a smile as he passed through the factory selling his papers, and the circumstance had so impressed the latter that he has made the young man fairly independent through his will.

Books are of pathetically little use to tell the story of nature. Few people recognize more than a dozen round-side flowers, the commonest trees and shrubs, a few kinds of birds and insects. ANAEMIC PLATES WOMAN'S CHOICE

Pearl Gray and White Chosen to Match Maroon Sedan of Ex-Commissioner's Relative—Are so Hard to Read They Are Menace to Safety, Say Police.

The New York Tribune on Friday printed the following:

Concerning the origin of the pearl-gray and white color scheme which lends such chaste obscurity to the 1924 automobile license plates, the following story, unauthenticated but perhaps authentic, is told sotto voce in what here can be identified only as "certain quarters."

The present State Tax Commission, of course, had nothing whatever to do with choosing the colors for the 1924 plates. Due to the exigencies of legislative appropriation and enactment plans for license plates to be used in any year are completed fourteen or fifteen months before the date of issue; and no member of the incumbent Tax Commission was in office October a year ago.

To one of the then Commissioners the pleasure of selecting a color combination for the 1924 plates was accorded by his colleagues. Presently (so it is related) one of the feminine members of his family came before him, who declared that the colors for the 1924 plates were homely, that they ill became her maroon sedan, and wouldn't it be nice to have pretty license plate just once, anyhow?

"That is a splendid idea, my dear!" the Commissioner is said to have said. "And what colors would you recommend?"

Pearl-gray and white were stunning with maroon, he was informed.

"That is a splendid idea, my dear," the Commissioner is reported to have repeated. So New York State has pearl-gray and white license plates this year, and any one who has seen them on maroon sedans must agree that the effect is stunning.

But unfortunately there is no law compelling criminals, drivers who are careless of speed and traffic regulations, and motorists in haste to leave the scene of an accident, to travel exclusively in maroon sedans. And as this otherwise delightful color scheme suffers from one grave drawback—namely, extremely low visibility—certain official persons have found it open to irate criticism. Of course, the series are mostly traffic magistrates and traffic policemen, who are reputed to have more thought for law enforcement than for aesthetics.

Magistrate V. Bruce Cobb, for instance, told The Tribune yesterday that he thought the new plates were "a howling farce and who ever designed them must have been dreaming." They constitute, in his opinion, a serious menace to the public safety; they are "a gratuitous assistance given by the State of New York to the desperate criminals who use automobiles to make their raids and escape the police."

It will be only a few months, he said before the gray fades, and then the numerals, which even when the plates are new cannot be read at the distance of half a block, will merge in indistinguishably with the background. The Tax Commission ought to withdraw them and issue new ones. Magistrate Cobb declared, adding:

ing that it would be well worth the expense in view of the number of accidents, and getaways that would be prevented.

Officials of the State Motor Vehicle Bureau also seemed sadly lacking in their appreciation of art. While no one there would condemn the 1924 plates, it was said that the 1925 issue would certainly be much more distinctive.

Traffic officers on Broadway and Fifth avenue had very definite opinions about pearl-gray and white for license plates, but their comments were mostly of the open air variety.

Admiral Palmer Named to Shipping Board.

Admiral L.C. Palmer

Rear Admiral Leigh C. Palmer, U. S. Navy, retired, has been named by President Coolidge to be chairman of the U. S. Shipping Board. Admiral Palmer served during a greater part of the World War as chief of the Bureau of Navigation.

Straw Braid.

In the United States straw hats are made from straw that is chiefly imported from Italy, China and Japan. Of the various materials which go into the fabrication of plaited hats the most important is wheat straw. The straw must have a length of "pipe" between the knots and must possess a clear, delicate, golden color and must not be brittle. The most valuable straw is from Tuscany, and from the Tuscan plains the Leghorn hats are made. Many substances besides straw are used in braids for hats and bunnets. Among these may be noticed willow and cane, as well as palm. The famous Panama hats are made from the leaves of the screw pine.

Seth Thomas Had Monopoly.

The first important clock factory in America was established by Seth Thomas, who long held a practical monopoly of the clock-making industry in the United States. Among the prized heirlooms of many American families are old Seth Thomas clocks, and many of them are still ticking away. The earliest ancestor of the clock was the sun dial, and this was supplanted by the water clock, which was invented in Rome about 2,000 years ago. The next improvement was the substitution of a weight for the water, and about the year 1000 the pendulum was invented.

Giant Parrot of the Rockies.

A giant parrot with a massive beak and a raucous voice that might have sounded like a megaphone for miles through the ancient marshes of prehistoric America, once lived in the Rocky mountains, scientists have learned. The bird stood seven feet tall, and its huge head was two and a half feet long. Of this there is no question, as one nearly completed skeleton exists, and fragments of others, including skulls, have been dug up. Several million years probably have elapsed since this mighty fowl trod the earth.

What Is Meant by "Truce of God."

In the Middle Ages private warfare was very common and the church synod, in order to limit what they could not wholly repress, in the Eleventh century and later, frequently passed decrees that there should be no such warfare during certain holy seasons and on certain days. By the end of the Eleventh century only about 80 days were left free for private warfare, but most of these days came in the summer when the fighting would naturally be most common. These holy seasons, when fighting was not allowed, were called the "Truce of God."

What Are Pan Fish?

The term pan fish is many times misinterpreted. Some seem to think that this includes only an inferior sort of species, and others that it is merely a term applicable to most any fish which happens to be taken and which is edible. The true pan fish is composed of small but game dwellers of the singing waters of brooks, creeks and rivers, and the shore lines of the lakes. Bream (bluegill or sunfish), rock bass, yellow perch, ringed perch and the horny chub, or dace, are all part and parcel of the pan-fish tribe.—Sportsman's Digest.

Lines Carry Own Gardeners.

Nearly every large liner making a business of carrying passengers carries one or more gardeners. Without them it would not be possible for such liners as the Majestic, the Mauretania and Aquitania to be such floating palaces or floating gardens. Huge quantities of cut flowers and many potted plants are used on these liners on every voyage. They have discovered that roses are not good sea travelers at all, regardless of expert care, but that chrysanthemums and carnations thrive on the rolling main.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

CHRISTMAS TREE

"Of course," said the Christmas Tree to Billie Brownie, "trees are at their best when Miss Springtime comes along, and she won't be doing that for some time."

"They all wear their best frocks in her honor and look truly lovely."

"The Red Maple Tree wears her best red party frock and looks so lovely for words, as she and her family stand here and there among the other green trees."

"The flowering shrubs are all out in the springtime and their ways are so interesting. They have blossoms and buds and leaves and they all welcome Springtime with the most beautiful and graceful of manners."

"The animals, too, wake up from their winter sleep and tell Miss Springtime how much they care for her."

"A great many of the animals aren't so fond of Old Man Winter and they wait until Miss Springtime has held of things before they get about."

"The birds all greet Miss Springtime, too. They arrive at just that season and they make their nests, and sing and call so that their friends will recognize them by those calls and songs."

"They chat about their family lives and tell about the feather makers they go to—some making a specialty of blue feathers, some of red waistcoats such as Mr. Robin always gets."

"Mr. Robin tells how he can listen near the ground and tell just where there is a worm. Yes, he says, when he corks his head on one side he can hear the worms stirring under the ground."

"The barnyard animals enjoy the spring and the mud. Gallant Mr. Rooster is very apt then to gracefully hand the hens fine worms upon frequent occasions—which means the same as very often."

"The geese, who're always off by themselves shuffling in their high voices and being very cross, do more talking in the spring, too—or rather it seems as if they did more as they, too, are wondering by themselves about the barnyard."

"The ducks are quacking and eager to get into the ponds, the pigs are digging their snouts in the ground and are enjoying themselves immensely."

"But I am happy because I belong to the Christmas Tree family. I do not care if I am not so much noticed in the spring as are all these other creatures I've just mentioned."

"And it is true! My family do not get the attention these other trees and animals and spring-loving creatures do."

"But it makes no difference. For we feel that our family has had the greatest honor of all. We are used as Christmas trees."

"Yes, our family of trees is the kind they say make the best Christmas trees of all, and so we are happy and we are just proud."

"Judge Just Praise says that we have every right to be proud."

"I don't think Weeping Willow should be called Weeping Willow. They're a nice family, giving shade and coolness and beauty wherever they are."

"And I don't think the Poplar trees should be called 'common' when they are willing to grow up and improve unsightly land where forest fires have raged."

"I like the good old Elm and the Beech trees, and I think trees have fine old stories to tell."

"But Billie Brownie, the best of all, is the one outstanding fact about our family."

"We're used as Christmas trees. Oh, Billie Brownie, isn't that enough to make any tree happy—for Christmas day is the greatest day in all the year."

"You have the highest honor paid you of all the trees," Billie Brownie said.

"What Did She Mean?"

"So you have taken to carrying around a monkey? This is going too far."

"Well, you never go anywhere with me," was his wife's ambiguous retort.

"A Matter of Color."

EVERYDAY GOOD THINGS

Variety is the spice of life and every housewife finds it hard to provide a change of menu.

If the allowance is not liberal for furnishing the table the following are merely suggestive and may be new to many.

Veal Cutlets.—Wipe a slice of veal and cut the meat into pieces. Cover with boiling water and simmer until the meat is tender. Drain, sprinkle with salt, dip into egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat. For sauce, melt two tablespoonsful of butter, add one of flour and one cupful of the veal broth, season with salt, pepper and onion juice, one teaspoonful of grated horseradish root and one fourth of a cupful of cream.

The following pie may be unsuitable for every day, but it is most delightful for a company dinner.

Banana Pie.—Line a pie plate with pastry and bake for twelve minutes. Cream together one tablespoonful of butter and three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, add two egg yolks beaten slightly, one-third of a cupful of flour, three-fourths of a cupful of boiling water, and cook in a double boiler until thickened. Cool and add a few drops of vanilla. Peel and slice three large bananas, putting a layer in the bottom of the pastry shell and covering with the cream filling; spread another layer of the bananas and top with the cream. Top with the stiffly-beaten egg whites sweetened with four tablespoonsful of sugar. Place in the oven until a delicate brown.

Raisin Pie.—Grate the rind and add the juice of two lemons and one orange, add one cupful of light brown sugar, two cupfuls of seeded raisins, one cupful of coarsely chopped walnuts, one and one-fourth cupfuls of water and bring to the boiling point. Add four tablespoonfuls of flour blended with two tablespoonfuls of water. Cook until well blended, pour into a partly lined pie plate, cover with a crust and bake for thirty minutes in a moderately hot oven.

The party will leave the last of June, returning the first of August, and Dr. Cady is hoping that there may be Kingston people who would enjoy accompanying Mrs. Cady and himself. Chinese Like Speed.

Speed in travel appeals to the Chinese, and thousands of Chinese take their rides simply for pleasure. It is no uncommon thing, for a poor coolie to spend his last "cash" on an automobile ride that leaves him stranded many miles from home. He is glad to stride back complacently and is satisfied in his own mind that his money has been well spent.

McBRIDE DRUG STORES

MANY NEW LINGERIE MODELS ARE EXPLOITED.

(By Eleanor Gunn)

When New Year's bells begin to ring, out come the hundreds upon hundreds of lingerie sets and samples and on 20 the White Sales, still so named, although most of the things sold in lingerie departments, those days are almost any color under the sun except white, just as the great majority of things featured are silk and crepe instead of flannel.

Although there is a large group of women who prefer lingerie of so-called tailored type, lace-trimmed underthings have an appeal which is across old Margot, Calai, Valenciennes and Cluny lace are used to a great extent. Some of the most costly sets are trimmed with bands of looting and some with fine hand embroidery or hemstitching. Contrasting linings are as popular a form of trimming as ever and all manner of little eccentricities of decoration are in favor. Among the novelties is a silk fabric in a tiny checkboard pattern, which is effectively employed in fashioning pleated garments.

Pleating of various kinds is a popular trimming feature for undergarments. One of the newest uses of pleating is the narrow inserted panel at either side of the front. This gives additional width and is highly decorative, especially in a model of georgette.

Some of the finest lingerie is very lavishly trimmed, and details of real lace complement edgings and insertions largely of wide Calais. Variety is gained through details such as side panels longer than front and back, and vester arrangements of bodice trimmings. Incidentally, the wasteline chemise and gown are types often repeated.

During the holidays it was discovered that the craze for Spanish shawls as well as for Mandarin coats and indirectly for Mah Jongg, has brought about a revival of Japanese kimonos and such highly decorative embroidered bodice gowns as are Oriental in their inspiration. It also became evident that there was a revival of interest in the breakfast jacket and that women liked lounging robes which were tailored and not unlike the beautiful broad-based robes some men wear.

For warmth as well as effectiveness, there the quilted satin robes in lovely boudoir colorings, some of which are marabon trimmed and most desirable in the clothes press.

Holiday buying also demonstrated that pajamas were on the increase and that types which are used for lounging were first choice; in other words, pajamas are expected to have decorative value. The woman who travels finds Pullman robes and pajamas galore in attractive colorings, running, of course, to dark shades and sometimes matched up with dainty slippers so that one may be presentable even when hurrying through a Pullman aisle.

LIGHT YOUR HOME WISELY AND WELL

Number and Location of Lamps, Color of Shades and Suitability to Room Important to Health and Service.

(By Florence Brobeck.)

It seems poor economy to save on the light bill, only to pay the oculist and the physician, yet there are hundreds of homes which, through ignorance and carelessness, use poor lights or badly arranged ones, and the family suffers the consequences. Eye strain may be the cause of indigestion and nervous disorders which finally lead to calamities. Light, which is the most important factor in the home, is often neglected. Lights which are too dim or too bright and lights placed too far from the object in question, or so that they shine directly into the eyes, are all equally injurious and inefficient.

Now, a useful and successful light is one which is placed so that it casts a good illumination on the object at hand—reading, sewing, writing, the bridge table. The lamp and its shade should be adjusted and readjusted until the desired result is secured; the shade directing and diffusing the light and softening it to not only its best quality for the eyes but its most soothing tone to the senses.

A diffused rather than a direct, bright light is more generally in use in the newer homes and everywhere that people are giving more intelligent thought to their lighting problem. The simplest way of securing this lighting arrangement in a room is to have an inverted or reflector light in the center of the ceiling (with a dust and insect proof globe). There should be a sufficiently strong bulb in this to give a clear illumination throughout the room, eliminating dim corners and shadows. Besides this ceiling light in the living room there should be table and floor lamps and candlesticks in the spots where light is most needed, depending on these for concentrated illumination and on the ceiling light for general illumination. It is usually practicable as well as appropriate to have one lamp at either end of a davenport, one of the easily moved black iron bridge lamps to use beside the reading chair or bridge table; a small lamp on the desk; a floor lamp or tall candelabra beside the piano; and, if candlelight is especially appreciated and preferred, use sconces at each side of the fireplace or bracketed sconces on a long refectory table, or place tall floor sticks where their light will do the most good.

Candlelight is particularly becoming and restful as well as cheering. The wealth of tradition and romance which has surrounded candlelight in our Colonial days has suffered none in being adopted into modern homes. Rather such light adds beauty and charm to the rooms and the people in them. When candlelight is combined with properly used electric light, both practical and artistic effects are the result.

Choose Shades Carefully.

There are a few women who would not exclaim at the horror of a red lamp shade in a room whose walls and draperies were yellow. Such a glaring error is obvious to nearly every one. Yet it is just as bad taste to place a frilly, lace-trimmed boudoir lamp in a living room, or a cretonne and repp lamp in a hall where fine silk draperies embellish the windows. That is, the bad taste of the latter is obvious to those whose sensibilities to good taste are keen, who have learned the common sense rule of balancing usefulness with suitability, fabric texture with fabric quality, and to appreciate sensitive relationships between qualities of furniture and textiles.

You need not be a decorator or have studied art to be able to choose lamps and shades appropriate to your home. A few simple rules and a great determination to remain unmoved by the glowing lampshade department in the stores will help immensely. For instance, in a dignified living room in which Oriental rugs, leather and tapestry covered pieces of furniture and heavy repp silk overdraperies are in evidence, a desirable shade would be one such as the rich bronze tinted parchment (without figures on it) or a severely plain shade of coppery gold taffeta with tapestry braid binding top and bottom. Both parchment and the plain silk are in keeping with the dignity of heavy furniture and somber colors and yet are useful shades giving good light. A polychrome base or one of black iron or a Chinese pottery vase would make excellent bases for such shades.

Suitability the Answer.

But when considering the cottage style living room with its Windsor chairs, rag rugs, dotted Swiss curtains and chintz overdraperies, the chintz lampshade or a silk or one of silk in the colors of the overdraperies is a happy choice for style as well as for interest. In a room furnished with painted furniture, taffeta overdraperies and furniture coverings of printed linen, buffed silk shades may be of bright taffeta, ruffled top and bottom in either the color of the wall or the furniture or in a cheerful tint contrasting to the leading color of the room. In the same room silk and fine lace shades are permissible on lamps of colorful pottery vases or delicate silver or brass standards.

A room furnished with painted furniture and checkered linen overdraperies and upholstery is interesting when the lampshades are linen checks, or of linen bound with contrasting colors and trimmed with appliques of apples, flowers and conventional designs. The bases of such lamps may be Colonial glass candlesticks (wired) or painted wooden standards or old-fashioned glass lamps electrically equipped. Fine bits of Chinese silks and unusual silks may be used in shades for such rooms, but avoid any use of the pagoda-shaped lamps, brilliant colored shades and the use of exotic doll lamps or lamp-and-victrola combinations in any room.

The lamps should be suited to the room, both in style and size and shape and color. A good rule to remember is that the outer covering of a shade should be in harmony with the room in the daylight and form a decorative as well as practical lamp when lighted at night. If you are discarding old lamp shades and choosing new frames to be covered, discriminate most carefully in choosing them. In selecting the linings and covers remember that certain tints absorb more light than others; that in a room decorated in cool colors (blue, gray, green) that lampshades of warmer colors are welcome. In a room in which blue predominates, for instance, use rose or cherry color or warm yellow or orange. The latter gives a cheerful light and is one most likely to fit in with any color scheme.

Excellent in green, brown and tan rooms. A soft gray shade might look well in a gray and rose and ivory room by daylight, but so much of the electric light will be absorbed by a gray shade that the general effect will be one of dimness—a waste of fabric as well as electricity. Here, as in the blue room, a rose cherry or a yellow shade would be advisable.

Figured silks, plain silks, painted paper, wall paper, parchment, English cotton prints, striped and checked glushams, linen, cretonne and chintz are all adaptable for making lampshades.

Ham Club Sandwiches.

For the ham club sandwiches, toast slices of whole wheat bread, spread with butter and place where they will keep hot. Use as the filling for an individual sandwich a slice of Virginia ham, a thin layer of chopped sweet pickle, two chopped stuffed olives, two tablespoons of finely minced celery and a crisp lettuce leaf, dipped in Russian dressing.

Another Rembrandt.

An Antwerp carpenter bought, for the price of a few francs, from a second-hand dealer, an old picture, of which the subject was, "Jesus Baptized in the River Jordan." An Antwerp art expert discovered on the painting the date 1600 and the signature of Rembrandt. The painting is said to be worth 2,000,000 francs.

A Table Stove Puts Home-Made Food Within the Reach of Every One of Us

Home Cooking, Be It Ever So Humble, Has a Lure of Its Own After an Overdose of the Best of Restaurant Living.

By Edna I. Sparkman and Anne Pierce

There comes a time when hotel dwellers and those who live in apartments that do not boast even a kitchenette develop a craving for food that is not "ready made," however subtle or elaborate the latter may be. When this stage is reached simple dishes, however humble, cooked within your own four walls, will satisfy you better than the most complicated menu.

There are many electric table stoves and grills varying in price from less than $10 (like the one shown in the illustration on a tea party) to the versatile electric broiler-cooker that stands on its own feet in a space no larger than that needed by a chair, but costs $65. Just an electric frying pan will give you pan broiled steaks closely resembling a technically broiled product, if you know how to preheat it and use no fat.

Which reflects the heat: sliding round covers enable one to remove any crumbs or spilled food from beneath the elements, a most important practical point. One and one-half inches below this is an open shelf (supported on small black feet) which will hold two plates for warming or to keep the toast as it should be until served.

Since the stove is to be used on any outlet (a lighting socket will do, but a convenience outlet is better) not more than 660 watts may be used at once and the four terminals at the end of the stove are so arranged that full heat may be thrown onto either of the two openings, or this amount of heat may be divided between the two.

This is a clever arrangement for you may start the water boiling with full heat (it will take twenty-five minutes for a quart), using the outside terminals; then slip the plug along and divide the heat, which directs, a toaster, a percolator or an alcohol coffee filter, plus a little ingenuity, great things in the culinary line may be accomplished.

The menu prepared in a kitchenette need not be confined to warming up the contents of cans or reheating delicatessen food, though canned foods as valuable assistants, no small part of their convenience under such conditions being the absence of any refuse but the container.

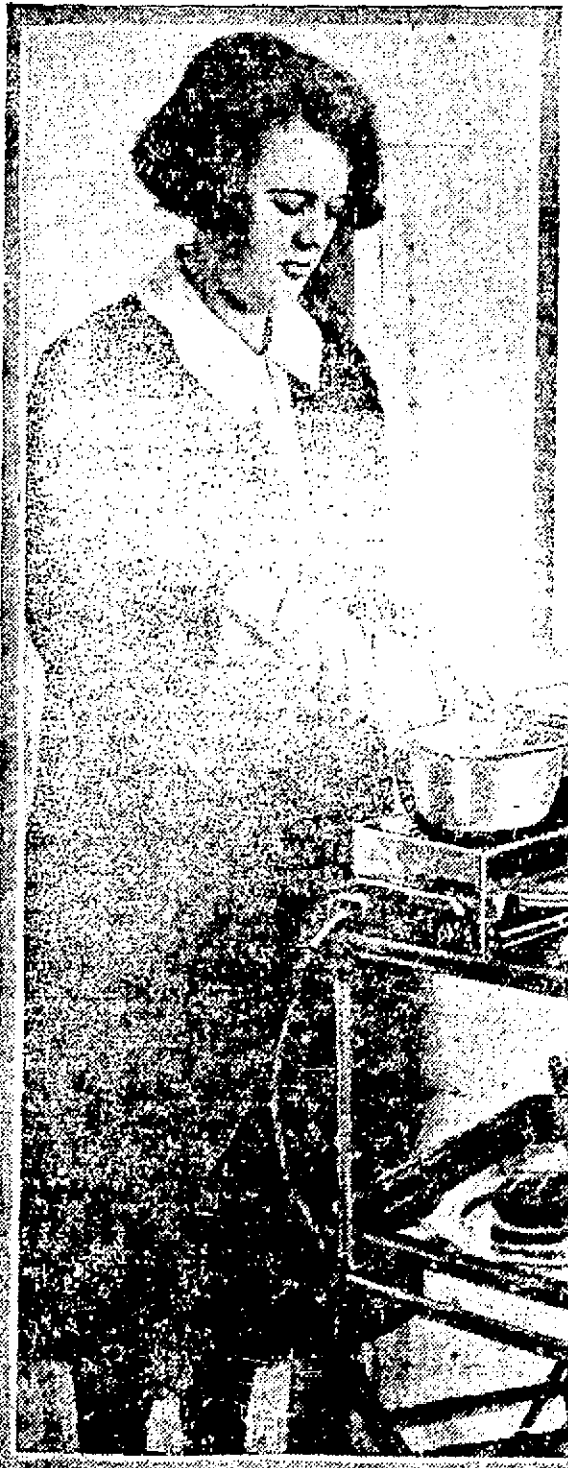

Breakfast Suggestions

Cooked cereals and corn flakes are invaluable for the slight-of-hand housekeeper, but if there are children one need not be confined to these entirely. Breakfast foods may be cooked well on this stove and reheated the next morning, and many cereals call for shortening cooking. It is corn meal, hominy or some of the special whole wheat and malt cereals are cooked in advance they may be sliced cold, sautéed in bacon fat or butter and make a perfect mush, to be served with honey or maple syrup for a one dish breakfast. Coffee and a strip of bacon with an orange for your vitamins would give a mansize breakfast in short order.

Other variations from the usual fried eggs, bacon, toast and coffee may be introduced by serving flummery or dried beef creamed; scrapple, or sausage cakes or tiny farm sausage. Any of these with orange juice, grapefruit or cold apple sauce (prepared in advance), hot toast and good coffee (all easily ready in half an hour with the help of table stove toaster and percolator) make a breakfast that no one can beat.

The toaster works for five cents an hour; it has handy knobs that do not get hot, by which one lowers the toast for turning; its cost is about half that of the stove, and it makes two slices of three-eighths inch well browned toast in two minutes—provided you do not forget

Note the ducting performed in this table stove instead of the usual solo and also that plates are warming, usually a flaw in kitchenette service. The toaster is busy at the same time, but keep an eye on it for it is sudden in action. The plug is inserted for full heat on one burner but slip it along one peg and both elements should operate on half heat.

This Particular Table Stove

The kitchenette store examined this week has a decided character and style of its own and differs from most grills by being oblong in shape and having two open heating elements side by side instead of one, the cooking being done always on top instead of above and below as with the grills.

This is really a miniature stove, 7x16 1/2 inches over all, with two round openings 5 1/4 inches in diameter, exposing the open coils of the heating units. The stove is made of nickel-plated steel and has a shelf 1 1/2 inches below the units.

will keep the water boiling and enable you to make toast or prepare bacon and eggs over the other element at the same time.

Many a person who lives in a hotel or kitchenless apartment finds it necessary to prepare special foods for a child or an invalid. The problem is solved by a small electric stove of this kind or by the electric fireless cookers, for they make possible well cooked vegetables or cereals, a broiled chop and broths, with a minimum of trouble, odor, heat and toll. As no special wiring is required they go to work anywhere. With an electric stove, grill or how quickly it works and burn it! The slices must not be more than 3/4 by 5 1/2 inches, however, for good work on the edges.

Poor King Alfred and his burned crumpets—he would have been in disgrace with an electric toaster. Each conversation or any other interests but toast is our advice, until toast is made. For scorched bread is not toast.

A plug that parts from the toaster with a struggle and a base that does not heat up and burn the unwary operator or the table are other virtues of this willing breakfast lieutenant.

Local High School Basketball Team Takes Second DUSO League Game Friday, Easily Topping Middletown 27-11.

The Kingston High School basketball team administered a crushing defeat to Middletown High School Friday night, 27 to 11.

Stock was the leading scorer, with Schmidt and Corcoran next, each with seven points. Prime and Coddington starred for Middletown. The score at the end of the first half was 11 to 4, the locals leading. At no stage of the game were the locals in danger.

The pass work and team play of the locals work to perfection, and much credit should go to Coach Anderson, who has been working hard for the team.

This is the second league game that the locals have won, the first being with Poughkeepsie. If the local team keeps up its good work, it is very for the top place in the league.

Local High School Basketball Team Takes Second DUSO League Game Friday, Easily Topping Middletown 27-11.

The Kingston High School basketball team administered a crushing defeat to Middletown High school Friday night, 27 to 11. Stock was the leading scorer, with Schmidt and Corrigan next, each with seven points. Prime and Coddington starred for Middletown. The score at the end of the first half was 11 to 4, the locals leading. At no stage of the game were the locals in danger. The pass work and team play of the locals work to perfection, and much credit should go to Coach Anderson, who has been working hard for the team.

This is the second league game that the locals have won, the first being with Poughkeepsie. If the local team keeps up its good work, all is rosy for the top place in the league.

Vast Spaces Within the Atom.

Just think of it. Although an atom is a particle of matter so tiny that it can scarcely be recognized by the most delicate scientific instruments, yet, says Prof. Niels Bohr, the famous Danish scientist now at New Haven, its infinitesimal parts, the electrons, can be as far away from the nucleus, comparatively, as the sun is from the earth.

Plans for the Future.

Old Lady (to burglar who's about through with his prison term)—"And have you any plans for the future, my good man?" He—"Yes, thank you. I've got hold of a couple of bank building plans and one for a jewelry shop."

The Superior Man.

The superior man will watch over himself when he is alone. He examines his heart that there may be nothing wrong there, and that he may have no cause for dissatisfaction with himself.

Wire Troubles.

Animal interference with telephone service includes bears that mistake the humming of wires for a swarm of honeybees; squirrels that chew holes in the lead sheath of cables; ants and beetles that eat metal; and spiders that throw their webs across open wires causing short circuits when dew gathers on the web.

CHARM—PLUS CASH

The date of her husband's death decided her career. It was in 1915 that Katherine Walker Smith suddenly faced the world with two young children and a factory nobody wanted.

Mr. Smith had developed a small but healthy trade demand for leather refrigerators. Then the war put such a crimp in nonessential industries that the Smith family's inheritance might almost as well have been no inheritance at all. She could not find a manager who could live on hope until conditions brought opportunity for renewed prosperity. She was afraid to try such a seemingly hopeless venture as managing in person, without any business training, a half-dead business.

So she sold the factory for what she could get. Her situation had made her think in business terms and consider seriously what business ability she had. That ability seemed to lie in selling, although selling the idea that woman suffrage would not destroy the universe to conservative Missouri voters measured the extent of her contact with the public.

She decided to sell things she'd enjoyed buying, and to sell 'em if possible to people she'd enjoy serving. She moved to Evanston, Ill., and opened the finest of shops dealing in women's fine wear. Evanston offered the advantages she felt she needed. It was small enough so she could easily become known without expensive advertising. It has a resident group of well-to-do people who are discriminating buyers of high-class clothing. It has a large group of college girls who are always needing an extra sports blouse, another set of lingerie, or a scarf that nobody on the campus can duplicate. It has, to be reached within an hour
